Toronto, Ontario (JANUARY 2, 2007). NAPP Canada in collaboration with Filion Wakely Thorup Angeletti LLP-Management Labour Lawyers, ACCES, Career Foundation, VPI, and YMCA are scrupulously organizing an Employment Law Conference 2007 for the workplace to be held on Wednesday, March 28th, 2007, 8am- 12 Noon at the Ramada Hotel & Conference Centre, Toronto-Don Valley. All media are invited.

Break away from the pack, from frustrations and harness your workplace productivity while being guided by employment law. “Many companies struggle for structure designed for work, while they hurriedly participate in the hiring and firing of workers just like that; seeking to change for better — but also ending up with huge unnecessary cost just for the glamour,” said Rita Persaud, Director of NAPP Canada. “Having employees that are talented and balanced to reflect a company’s goals and objectives is the blueprint for success. However, knowing and enforcing employment standard will put companies over the bar to the next echelon of success. I mean, when there are standards and structure in place, we can see a design that promotes accountable, efficient and effective companies — more focused and with purpose; reduced process; less costs; great ROI.”

For those who insist on the best and want to hear it from the experts, NAPP Canada and its partners have put together a compelling conference to demystify the legalese on employment law and provide you with some straight talk about the workplace.

The best kept secret about administering employment law is to know where success starts. Delve into success by attending the Employment Law Conference 2007 for the workplace which takes a giant step to cover the Employment Standards Act and Termination and Dismissal law.
